

Behind every piece of leveraged loan data is a story.

S&P Global Market Intelligence's Leveraged Commentary & Data (LCD) combines real-time news and trend analysis on U.S. and European leveraged loan, high yield bond, distressed debt and corporate markets. From the large syndicated market through the middle market, LCD publishes real-time stories on key milestones, from inception through trading, so that you're able to react to deals and developing trends.

Turn information into business intelligence

Leveraged Commentary & Data helps buy-side and sell-side institutions:

- Compare loans currently in the syndications market with similar, recent transactions
- Identify possible trade opportunities
- Benchmark defaults and return performance
- Price and structure loans to clear the market
- Track important market trends

News—In today's markets you need to know more and know it faster.

Our real-time news coverage on leveraged loan and high yield bond originations, launches, pricing, and trading gives you the ability to follow deals through their entire life-cycle, complete with comparisons against the rest of the market. Produced by our own team of veteran journalists and analysts, our wide-ranging news offering covers:

- Price-flexed deals and restructurings
- Breaking news on mandates, pricing, and syndication
- Analytical market commentary, including analysis of technical trends in the marketplace
- Daily and weekly recaps with comprehensive coverage of events

Research—Not all information is important—some of it is vital

Our proprietary daily trend analysis, topical research throughout the week, and weekly, monthly, and quarterly reports contextualize the current market against 20 years of historical data. Our key market data is incorporated into a variety of research products that allow you to track market activity such as loan statistics from 40 different industry segments or leveraged buyout (LBO) lending information.

Our research includes:

- Monthly leveraged loan default rates and commentary, including key near-term default rate trend indicators
- Weekly and monthly market technicals on inflow information including loan repayments and prepayments along with CLO issuance and prime fund flows
- A full set of quarterly statistics and commentary on investor trends in the leveraged loan market
- A detailed weekly listing of institutional loans, including key loan features
- A quarterly analysis of the LBO market, segmented by transaction amount and industry
- A twice-weekly view of investor sentiment, based on the trading prices of the 15 largest institutional names
- Monthly analysis of actual loan repayment rates
- S&P/LSTA Index returns segmented by industry and rating
