Follow-The-Sun uses those commodities that are assessed by S&P Global Platts products at both their “native” closing time - like London MOC for Brent, and later times, like at Houston MOC as markers for the time-changing values of many products. These differences are then used to shift other, similar products to later closes as well.

Time differences are always “forward” - so, for example, the Singapore shifted closing estimates are based on the prior day’s Houston and London closings, and the changes of the marker prices. Similarly, the London shifted are based on the earlier in the day Singapore, and the prior day’s Houston close.

Effective Times are the end of the MOC window in the noted closing region.
