

HSBC Pan Arab MultiFactor Index Series Consultation on Index Business Days – Updated

AMSTERDAM, DECEMBER 22, 2021: S&P DJI Netherlands B.V., a wholly owned subsidiary of S&P Dow Jones Indices LLC., (“S&P Dow Jones Indices” or “S&P DJI”) is the benchmark administrator for the HSBC Pan Arab MultiFactor Index Series. The HSBC Pan Arab MultiFactor Index Series is owned by HSBC. In order to solicit additional market feedback, S&P DJI is reopening the consultation with market participants on potential changes to the HSBC Pan Arab MultiFactor Index Series originally issued on December 10, 2021.

Per the current methodology, “Index Business Day” means each day following the launch of an Index on which the relevant exchange is scheduled to open for trading for its regular trading session as shown in Table2 of the methodology (and shown below). If the Index Calendar refers to more than one Exchange, a day will be considered an Index Business Day only when all such Exchanges are scheduled to open for trading for their regular trading sessions.

Index	Ticker	Reference Benchmark Index	Region	Currency	Index Calendar
HSBC Pan Arab MultiFactor Price Return Index (USD)	HSIEPAMP	S&P Pan Arab Investable Index	Pan Arab	USD	Dubai Financial Market + Saudi Stock Exchange
HSBC Pan Arab MultiFactor Net Total Return Index (USD)	HSIEPAMT	S&P Pan Arab Investable Index	Pan Arab	USD	Dubai Financial Market + Saudi Stock Exchange

CHANGES TO DUBAI FINANCIAL MARKET (“DFM”) EXCHANGE TRADING CALENDAR

The government of the United Arab Emirates (“UAE”) is shifting the national weekend to Saturday and Sunday to synchronize with global markets, instituting a four-and-a-half day working week beginning on January 1, 2022. With this shift, the workweek will be Monday–Thursday plus half a day on Friday instead of Sunday–Thursday.

S&P DJI is considering three options with regard to the definition of Index Business Day as a result of the UAE’s workweek change.

Option 1. Leave the definition of Index Business Day unchanged.

- The result would be that Sundays would be considered an index holiday.
- Assuming no exchange holidays, the index would calculate on a Monday–Thursday schedule.
- During the construction of sub-index rebalancing baskets, the selection metrics for stocks in the underlying universe would be calculated using the new index holiday schedule.

Option 2. Change the definition of Index Business Day so that “Index Business Day” means each day following the launch of an Index on which the relevant exchange is scheduled to open for trading for its regular trading session as shown in Table2 of the methodology. If the Index Calendar refers to more than one Exchange, a day will be considered an Index Business Day only when at least one Exchange is scheduled to open for trading for their regular trading sessions.

- This change would result in both Friday and Sunday being considered as index business days.

- Assuming no exchange holidays, the index would calculate on a Sunday–Friday schedule.
- During the construction of sub-index rebalancing baskets, the selection metrics for stocks in the underlying universe would be calculated using the new index holiday schedule.

Option 3. Remove the DMF exchange from the index calendar shown in Table2 of the methodology.

- This change would result in the index business day schedule remaining Sunday–Thursday, with the main difference being that DFM exchange holidays would not trigger an index holiday.
- During the construction of sub-index rebalancing baskets, the selection metrics for stocks in the underlying universe would be calculated using the new index holiday schedule.

QUESTIONS

Please answer the following questions and provide S&P DJI with the reasoning behind your answers:

- 1. Regarding the definition of Index Business Day, which option do you prefer?
 - Option 1: Leave the definition unchanged
 - Option 2: Change the definition so that at least one exchange is required to be open for trading instead of requiring all exchanges to be open for trading
 - Option 3: Remove Dubai Financial Market from the index calendar shown in Table2 of the methodology
- 2. Do you have any other comments or feedback regarding the proposed changes outlined above?
